

2006 - CK BAILY

Baily, an avid angler has been working for the betterment of Nevada's wildlife, and particularly the creation of an urban fishing pond in Carson City for more than five years. During 2006, Baily spearheaded efforts to secure funding through the use of Question 1 monies to develop the pond. Throughout the year, Baily attended Carson City Wildlife Advisory Board meetings, Wildlife Commission meetings and worked with the Carson City Parks and Recreation Department to move the project forward.

Baily has presented and lobbied government officials, recreation and open space planners, and the Carson City Supervisor's office in pursuit of an urban fishing pond conveniently located for the residents and children of Carson City. Baily's high level of commitment and ceaseless quest of this project will result in the creation of a 1 acre fish pond located at the base of Clear Creek.